Sebastien Deville is a biology engineer and graduated from CNAM Paris. He joined Seppic in 1996.

Over the last 25 years, S.Deville worked for Adjuvant and Injectable business unit but also to the Pharma excipient division in SEPPIC. He started his Seppic career working in our immunology laboratory as a technician. After 10 years, he moved to the management of the Scientific marketing in our HQ team based in Paris. He then moved to Mumbai, India, in 2011 to support business development of the Adjuvant, Vaccine & Injectable (A.V.I.) unit. After another position in Paris as Business Development Manager for the Pharmacy BU, he moved again to Asia, this time for the SEPPIC office in Shanghai, China, to be in charge of the A.V.I markets. After July 2020 S.Deville returned to a position in sales in Europe and is now managing the A.V.I. business in this area as well as the Excipient open innovation program for SEPPIC.
