Dr Mariette SALERY holds a DVM (2007, Toulouse, France) and a master level 1 in Cellular Physiology and Pathology (2006, Toulouse, France). She also followed advanced courses in biotechnology, immunology, cell biotherapy and statistics.

Before joining the ANSES-ANMV (French Agency for Veterinary Medicinal Products), she worked in New Caledonia as a coordinator in animal health programs for the local agriculture services.

She joined the ANSES-ANMV in 2009 and is now a senior assessor for Immunological products in the Scientific Department. She is involved in the assessment of Marketing Files for Immunological Products (quality, safety and efficacy parts) and in management of national and European procedures.

She was the Immunological Unit representative at the French Expert Groups for the Veterinary Medicinal Products from 2010 to 2013.

Until 2013, she serves as the French representative at the CMDv (Coordination Group for Mutual Recognition and Decentralised Procedures – Veterinary) where she is involved in the regulatory matters for immunological and pharmaceutical veterinary medicinal products.
